RHUBARB MARMALADE.

Rhubarb is plentiful, a good one may be made by adding one pineapple and five pounds of rhubarb. In preserving kettle on back until sugar is dissolved, then it to cook moderately for one hour into jars and seal.—Good keeping.

TURKEY STUFFING.

Put sweet potatoes with skins on tender, then peel and mash. To each pint add one teaspoon salt, shakes pepper, two tablespoons three tablespoons sweet corn, one teaspoon sugar, one cup of nuts, chopped fine. Mix and turkey, but do not stuff too full. —New York World.

SOUTHERN POTATO SALAD.

Put up as many cold boiled potatoes as desired with a generous amount of onions cut up fine and one stalk of celery cut up fine; all together into a large bowl. To one pound of bacon in cubes fry nice and brown. While that is frying mix one teaspoon of salt, of mustard and one heaping spoon of sugar; mix with half a cup of warm water and add to bacon fat; then add one cup of cider vinegar and mix with bacon, fat and when pour over potatoes, onions and celery.—New York World.

PERFECT RICE.

Now housewives understand how to cook rice so that it puffs into a mass, each kernel distinct. I found a way. First wash it roughly through several cold waters, rubbing the kernels between hands. This is to remove all the dirt. After the water runs clear, put the rice into a colander, and then put it into a deep stew pot, allowing one quart of boiling water to a cup of washed rice. Add a spoonful of salt, and allow it to cook to a good boil. Cook steadily twenty minutes, lifting the rice occasionally with a fork to prevent sticking. Shake the kettle also the same purpose, but never stir mash with a spoon. Take it from the fire, pour off the water if it is left, and place it on the back of the stove, in the oven, or even a pot of hot water until it finishes cooking. Cooked in this way it will find the rice plump, light and white, each grain distinct and separate.—New York Globe.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Put small orange and small onion side duck while roasting to improve flavor.

To successfully bake a pie crust without the filling, line it with a raffia paper and fill with uncooked corn.

Enamelled ware that become stained or discolored may be cleaned by rubbing with coarse salt and vinegar.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice to a quart of water will make rice white and keep the grains separate when cooked.

If eggs are to be boiled hard have the water boiling when the eggs are dropped in. This will prevent the yolks from turning dark.

Warm your discolored earthenware or granite baking dishes well, and rub them with damp cornmeal. It cleans without scratching.

More coal is burned than necessary by not closing the dampers when the fire is not being used. In the same way gas is wasted or any kind of coal.

In putting on the bands to skirts make them long enough to turn in about an inch. Make the buttonholes in this, and being doubly strong it will not pull out.

When the pretty bunches and baskets of sweet-scented grass begin to lose their fragrance, plunge them for a moment into boiling water and they will be again as aromatic as when first gathered. Dried lavender may be similarly treated.

For warmed over boiled potatoes, cut them into slices and put into a buttered baking dish in alternate layers with grated cheese, bits of butter, pepper and salt. When the dish is full sprinkle the top with grated cheese, turn over in a cupful of milk or cream and bake for half an hour.

THE GARGOIL.

The Gargoil often makes its perch on a cathedral or a church. Where, mid ecclesiastic style, He smiles an early-Gothic smile. And while the parson, dignified, Spouts at his weary flock inside, The Gargoil, from his lofty seat, Spouts at the people in the street. And, like the parson, seems to say To those beneath him, "Let us pray." I like the Gargoil best; he plays So cheerfully on rainy days. While parsons (no one can deny) Are awful dampers—when they're dry. —Olive Harford in the Century.

DOCTOR SAID "USE CUTICURA"

For Bad Case of Eczema on Child—Disease Had Reached a Fearful State—Order Resulted in Cure.

"When I was small I was troubled with eczema for about three months. It was all over my face and covered nearly all of my head. It reached such a state that it was just a large scab all over, and the pain and itching were terrible. I doctored with an able physician for some time and was then advised by him to use the Cuticura Remedies, which I did and I was entirely cured. I have not been bothered with it since. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, but do not know exactly how much was used to complete the cure. Miss Anabel Wilson, North Haven, Mich., Oct. 20, '07."

Ham for the Wake.

Mr. O'Brien has unwittingly placed himself in the position of a gentleman of his own race, who, lying on his deathbed, was questioned by his inebriated prospective widow. "Poor Mike," said she, "is there anything that would make me comfortable? Any thing so as for I'll get for you." "Pineapple, Bridget," he responded, "I like 'em like a wee taste of the home I smell a-bellin' in the kitchen." "Araah, go on," responded Bridget. "I'll get a bit of that ham y'll get for the wake." —New York Times.

To Make Complaints a Duty.

The Railroad Gazette cites incidents to show the opposite results of complaining generally about an abuse, but refusing to make specific complaint at headquarters, and of promptly making reports to headquarters. The incidents are such as may have come to the notice of any one who travels much on railroad trains. The argument is all in favor of making complaint and helping to improve the service.

The average American, though however angry he may get over imposition or insult by the employee of a railroad company, is loth to take any action which may cost that employee his job, and, after the first burst of wrath, lets the matter slip—to the hurt of the service and the inevitable repetition of the offense at the expense of some one else. Some complaints are entered at headquarters, it is true, but no one will contend that such is the case as often as it should be. The Railroad Gazette unquestionably takes the right attitude in the matter, but it cannot hope to make many patrons of the railroad agents for the cultivation of courtesy among employees.—Buffalo Express.

HEALTH BRINGS HAPPINESS.

Invalid Once, a Happy Woman Now.

Mrs. C. R. Shelton, Pleasant street, Covington, Tenn., says: "Once I seemed a helpless invalid, but now I enjoy the best of health. Kidney disease brought me down terribly. Rheumatic aches and pains made every movement painful. The secretions were disordered and my head ached to distraction. I was in a bad condition, but medicines failed to help. I lost ground daily until I began with Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once and soon made me strong and well."
